Anchorage Trail - The Anchorage Trail is located at Evergreen Road and Station Road in Anchorage. It encompasses 4 acres of land. This two-mile paved trail goes through a diverse habitat of woods, fields, farm crops and wetlands including a lake. The birding is good all year round but especially during spring and fall migrations. The lake can sometimes have a variety of ducks in the winter. One hundred eighty-one species have been recorded for this trail.

There are others trails that are good for birding – maybe the best is the horse trail. This trail is located at the end of the second big bridge. Take a left and proceed down below the bridge and follow the grassy path. It will lead you to the paved path.
